Pricing and Terms

Herbal Inquiries, a service of Harris Anthropological Research LLC · Effective November 2026

These rates reflect a practice that is new and building its record. I am insured, I am a general member of the American Herbalists Guild and am working toward fuller AHG recognition, and I price at the low end of what this work commands. Rates will rise as the practice matures, and a quote I give you holds for 60 days. Quotes and first conversations are always free.

> Everything here is education or research. I do not diagnose, treat, or prescribe, and I never advise starting or stopping a medication. I do not sell herbs or products.

One-on-One Herbal Education Consults

You learn how herbal traditions read the body, through constitutional and tissue-state mapping, practiced on your own questions. Every consult begins with a two part intake. Part One happens at home: you sign the informed consent, keep a three day diet diary, and gather your medication and supplement list. Part Two is the first consultation, in which I ask your health history aloud, so your story is heard in your own words and not squeezed into a form. Plan on about 90 minutes. If you need more time, I schedule a second session at the follow-up rate. Your written wellness plan follows within about a week. Follow-up comes within one to two weeks, then as we agree. Plan on about three visits.

Ethnobotanical Field Surveys

You get a survey report with species lists, mapped locations, and a plain account of how each plant relates to the people of the place. Each plant is verified in the field before it is recorded. Locations of sensitive or vulnerable plants stay out of public documents, and I work from landowner permission and any required permits. Land managers, agencies, developers, land trusts, Tribal programs, and restoration teams use surveys to know what grows on a landscape before they plan.

Survey	What it includes	Fee range
Small parcel	Up to 10 acres, desktop review, one field day, report	$450 to $700
Mid-size parcel	10 to 40 acres, desktop review, up to two field days, report	$700 to $1,300
Larger area or multi-season	Scoped with you and billed hourly	$69 / hour

Plant materials, printing, and permit costs are billed at cost. Travel follows the HAR travel rates page. Surveys are research, not consultation, and carry no medical or remedy claims.

Teaching and Documentation

Plant walks, talks, and workshop series are built for your group and quoted at scoping, once I know the group, the setting, and the length. Traditional use documentation follows the free, prior, and informed consent of the people who hold the knowledge. The community decides what is recorded and who may read it.

Service	Basis	Rate
Plant walk	Quoted at scoping	$69 / hour
Talk or presentation	45 to 60 minutes, plus questions	$69 / hour
Workshop series, fermentation	Quoted at scoping, supplies at cost	$40 / hour
Traditional use documentation	Quoted at scoping	$69 / hour
